TURKS OCCUPY EUROPEAN CITIES

Podosto Turned Over by Allies—Adrianople, Next—Tension Continues in Constantinople.

By Telegram to The Freeman. London, Nov. 14.—Allied military forces in western Thrace have turned over Podosto, important seaport on the Sea of Marmora, to the Turkish Nationalists and will turn over Adrianople, Thracian capital city, to the Turks on Sunday, said a dispatch from Constantinople today.

Occupation of these two important cities on European soil by the Turks gives them a diplomatic victory over the Allies before the Near East peace conference opens. It also gives Turkey a strong military position in Europe. The Allies had declared at the time of the Mudanya armistice that they would not allow the Turks to occupy western Thrace until after the peace conference convened.

The situation at Constantinople is still tense and refugees continue to flock into the city and thence to Greece. It is now believed that the Kemalists will not make any further attempt to overthrow the authority of the Allies, feeling that they dare not do so further in their demands pending the Lausanne meeting.

In Constantinople, the Turks continue to celebrate their victory over the Greeks, sacrificing sheep in the streets.

There are indications that a preliminary Near East peace meeting may be held in London after all, despite the opposition of the French.

Signor Della Torretta of Italy, is coming here to discuss Near East affairs with Lord Curzon over the week end and Premier Poincaré of France may be persuaded to send a representative.

The blind bridesmaids will be attired in costumes of blue crepe de chine with blue and gold headresses. LIQUOR SEIZED AT SHAFT NO. 1

As the result of a raid at Shaft No. 1 of the New York Board of Water Supply on Sunday evening, Sheriff Pierce of Catskill placed Joseph Marquette under arrest on a charge of violating the dry law. Raids before on suspected sellers about the shaft have produced no results as the sellers have had time to dispose of liquor. The raid Sunday evening was made so suddenly that there was no chance to dispose of the stuff. A quantity of raw white liquor was seized. At the shaft of Sam Green the officers were too slow. As they entered the shaft from the rear and front doors some one threw a bottle of liquid out of a window into the sluiceway outside where the excess muddy water from the shaft is pumped. A search of the stream later failed to reveal the bottle which was swept away by the water.

CONSTANTINE SEEKS SECLUSION

Wants No More To Do With Greece Or Its Throne—Wishes To Spend Remaining Years in Quiet, Isolated Riviera Villa.

(Copyright 1922 by International News Service.)

By Telegram to The Freeman. Palermo, Italy, Nov. 14.—Constantine, former king of Greece and an exile from his native land, has retired from active politics for life, and never again will seek to return to the Hellenic throne, no matter how loudly the people may call for him, he revealed today in the first interview he has given out since his abdication.

Asked if he would return to Athens to stand trial before a revolutionary tribunal on the charge of being responsible for the Greek military collapse in Asia Minor, Constantine emphatically replied:

"It is all nonsense. I am not going back to Athens. I am not going back to stand trial. It is equal nonsense about my going to Doorn to meet by brother-in-law, the former German Kaiser. I am in complete retirement. Never again will I become involved in politics. I have no plan for the future except to lead a quiet, isolated life. I will remain at Villa Igea in Palermo for the time being."

"If the monarchists in Greece are active in behalf of 'Tino' as Constantine is frequently called, the former king knows nothing about it. He will have nothing to do with Greek affairs; will not even discuss them. There are no courtiers in Athens visiting him but not a personal friend drops in but not to talk politics. That subject is barred."

"Tino" said that he would probably remain in Sicily all winter and in the spring buy a small villa upon the Italian Riviera where he will spend his declining years reading, writing and growing a few olives.

"Those fellows have certainly grown egotistical," declared Constantine sarcastically when asked for an opinion as to the victorious Turks.

"They have what you Americans call the 'swelled head.' I wonder what the English think now about this mess."

"Europe does not seem to be able to adjust itself since the great war. America could help but there arises the question: Is America no longer interested in Europe, or what happened to the treaties that were framed after war? Is America no longer interested in Christianity? longer interested in Christendom, America, it seems to me, has helped frame some of those treaties that followed the World War."

In conclusion Constantine said: "I want to live in seclusion. I do not want to be disturbed. I have broken my rule in giving this interview. It is my last. Please announce that I will not receive any more journalists. It is my desire to keep out of the limelight."

Constantine's brother, Prince Christopher, is married to Mrs. William Leeds, widow of the American tin plate king. It was reported for a time that Constantine and his wife—sister of the former German Kaiser—would go to New York to live in Mrs. Leeds's New York residence. Constantine laughed when told of this report and dismissed it with a shrug.

Palermo, Nov. 14.—Constantine, ex-king of the Hellenes, who is now living in exile, has had a stormier career than any other European monarch. He fought in the Balkan wars and succeeded to the throne in Athens in March, 1913, when his father was assassinated at Salonika. He was forced by the Allies in June, 1917, to abdicate because of his pro-German sympathies and fled to Switzerland. In December, 1920, he returned to Athens to find his country engaged in war against the Turks. Revolution followed and Constantine again fled into exile in September, 1922.

CHILE'S QUAKE COST 2,000 LIVES

By Telegram to The Freeman. Buenos Aires, Nov. 14.—Deaths from earthquake and tidal wave in Northern Chile, probably will exceed 2,000, it was indicated today by late reports from the scene of the calamity.

The Chilean government has divided the relief work into different sections: While workmen and soldiers are employed removing the wreckage of shattered towns and searching for bodies, other are carrying relief to the thousands of homeless and still others are working to restore rail and telegraphic communication with the devastated zones.

Villena and Huasco, 275 miles north of Valparaiso, are scenes of devastation and horror. Nearly all the buildings were shaken down by the quake, causing heavy loss of life as the people were caught sleeping.

Naval craft have been rushed to that zone with supplies for the survivors.

FREIGHT WRECK ON WEST SHORE

This morning about 1 o'clock five cars of a south bound freight train jumped the tracks at Esopus completely tying up both north and south bound traffic. The New York paper train did not arrive in Kingston until about 10 o'clock this morning. Traffic in both directions was tied up from the time of the wreck until about 9 o'clock this morning. As far as learned no one was injured in the wreck. The wrecking crew from Kingston was sent to the scene and while busy cleaning up the wreck a temporary switch was built to allow the switching of trains around it.

LEACH RIDICULES GROSS CHARGES

By Telegram to The Freeman. Minneapolis, Minn., Nov. 14.—Colonel George E. Leach, mayor of Minneapolis, and national committeeman for Minnesota, of the American Legion, today took exception to the strictures against the legion made in Paris by Edmund L. Gros, the legion's continental commander. Col. Leach headed the Minnesota delegation to recent New Orleans Legion convention. He said:

"In the first place, anyone who attended the convention in New Orleans knows that the deprecations mentioned by Dr. Gros were due to the tough element of the city who were not even ex-service men. I went to the police court myself once and saw who the offenders were, and in no case were they convention delegates."

"The work of the legion at the convention was of the most constructive nature and it will be a great benefit to all America."

"His statement that the American Legion is doing is too ridiculous to comment on."

BROTHER WEDS SISTER; AUTHORITIES PUZZLED.

By Telegram to The Freeman. Kingston, N. Y., Nov. 14.—The authorities here today held the alleged confession of John H. Chegier, 17, of No. 1 Lawton avenue, that he was aware of the relationship when he led his own 20 year old sister, Elizabeth, of New York city, to the altar in the town of Conklin, near here, on November 7.

"I didn't know I was doing wrong," was the only explanation that Chegier would give today.

"Don't you know that you can be sent to prison for ten years for doing such a thing?" the youth was asked.

"No," he declared. "Don't you know that you can't live with your 'wife' brought a similar halting. 'No,' from the boy. Humane officers here, who have the case in hand, were puzzled today as to just what procedure to take in the case. A conference between officers and the 'newly weds' was scheduled later in the day.

THREE CHANGE PLEAS TO GUILTY

Harvey Dunham And Mary Adams Given Prison Terms—W. Coons's Sentence Deferred—John Collins's Trial Thursday.

When county court convened this morning at 10 o'clock several more pleas of guilty were accepted by the court and as a result the calendar, which had been prepared by District Attorney Traver was broken up so that no case could be taken up for trial. In the case of The People vs. William Coons, which had been set down for trial this morning, defense through his attorney, Roscoe Ellsworth, changed his plea of not guilty to robbery, first degree, and pleaded guilty to robbery, second degree. This plea was accepted by the court and sentence was deferred until Thursday.

Harvey Dunham, who pleaded not guilty to the charge of grand larceny, first degree, through his attorney, DuBois Gillette changed his plea to guilty to grand larceny, second degree. The plea was accepted and sentence was pronounced. He was sentenced to serve an indeterminate term in the Clinton State Prison at Dannemora. The sentence being for a term of not less than one year and six months or more than three years and six months.

Mary Adams, a lady of color, also changed her plea from not guilty to assault in the second degree to guilty of assault in the third degree and was sentenced to serve a term of five months and 15 days in the county jail. Thomas Coughlin appeared for her. She was arrested at East Kingston where it is alleged she assaulted another colored lady at a dance. She has been in jail since July 26, this time spent in jail applying on her sentence.

District Attorney Traver had expected to take up the trial of William Coons this morning but his plea of guilty disposed of the case and as it had been expected that two days would be consumed in the trial no other witnesses were present and no other case was ready. Thomas Coughlin announced that he would be ready to go to trial in the John Collins case on Thursday when the witnesses for The People would be present. An adjournment was therefore taken until 2 o'clock this afternoon when a jury will be taken so as to be ready for trial Thursday morning when the entire panel from questioning Thursday morning and the case will then be ready for immediate trial.

The following cases are on the criminal calendar and have not been disposed of:

The People vs. John Collins.

The People vs. Charles D. Terpeding.

The People vs. Glen Robinson.

The People vs. Joseph Crotty.

The People vs. Earl Rhodes.

The People vs. Bert Conklin.

The People vs. Purdy, DuBois et al.

The People vs. Charles P. Marano.

The People vs. Alfred Burzee.

NATIONAL CANCER WEEK AGAIN BEING CONDUCTED

By Telegram to The Freeman. New York, Nov. 14.—National Cancer Week, which was inaugurated last fall by the American Society for the Control of Cancer with headquarters here, is being repeated, having begun November 12, and over 10,000,000 citizens of the United States and Canada will be reached with informative information on this mysterious and dread disease.

The society, a philanthropic organization embracing among its members many of the foremost physicians, surgeons and scientists in this country, is conducting a year-round campaign in an effort to show the average citizens what the early symptoms, or danger signals of the disease are in order that persons afflicted may receive quick treatment and save their lives.

Once a year a drive is made with far-reaching results. The symptoms are easily recognized by the laymen. While physicians may disagree on some matters they are of a mind in the belief that the one real hope for a person afflicted with cancer is to obtain early knowledge of the fact and act at once.

ARRAIGNED IN COUNTY COURT

Fields Indictment Dismissed—Duffy, Delaney and Castor Plead Not Guilty—Viola Osterhoudt Given Six Months.

County court which was recessed over until Monday was convened at 2 o'clock at the court house with County Judge Joseph M. Fowler presiding and District Attorney Traver at that time arraigned several prisoners. The civil cases were all disposed of before the adjourned date and at the conclusion of the civil calendar the court went into recess until this week in order to take up the criminal calendar. There are a number of cases which will probably be disposed of at this time. In order to have sufficient jurors to try the cases an extra panel of 50 was summoned. They reported Monday afternoon and those who were not excused were sworn and excused until today at 10 o'clock when trial work was taken up.

In the case of The People vs. William J. Fields, District Attorney Traver stated that the complaining witness was not anxious to press the indictment be dismissed. Fields was in the grand jury on a charge of forgery but has since made restitution. William D. Brininger appeared for defendant.

William Duffy, known as Gene Lamar, the dancer, and George Delaney, both of this city, who were indicted by the grand jury on a charge of burglary in the third degree, alleged to have been committed in the city of Kingston on September 30, 1922, were arraigned and both pleaded not guilty. They both furnished bail.

Kenneth Castor, indicted by the grand jury on a charge of burglary in the third degree and criminally receiving stolen goods in the second degree, also pleaded not guilty. The crime is alleged to have taken place on October 1, 1922, in the town of Gardiner. He was also admitted to bail. William D. Brininger appeared for defendant.

Viola Osterhoudt, a colored girl from this city, who was indicted by the grand jury for assault in the second degree and who had entered a plea of not guilty changed her plea Monday to guilty to assault in the third degree and was sentenced by the court to six months in the county jail. Viola has been in jail since July 19 and as this time applies on her sentence she will soon be discharged. In answer to the usual question she said she was born in Kingston and was 18 years old, her parents were dead, she was married and had never been convicted before and attended the Catholic Church.

Court then went into recess until this morning when the regular criminal calendar was taken up.

LAKE KATRINE STORES ROBBED

Brink Brothers' $225 Account Register and Place Glass Window Broken But Thieves Didn't Get Much Booty—Auchmoody Place Entered First.

The general store of Brink Brothers at Lake Katrine, in which the Lake Katrine post office is located, was burglarized sometime Monday night and goods were taken and property damaged by the burglars to the extent of about $1,000.

Entrance first was attempted through a window on the west side of the store building, which was broken. A quantity of boxes of goods of the National Biscuit Company effectively blocked ingress that way, whereupon the burglars smashed on of the plate glass windows in the front of the store.

After getting inside, the burglars helped themselves to a large quantity of gloves, pocket knives, old fashioned razors, safety razors, extra blades, sheepskin-lined coats and overalls. From the office, which is used as a post office, they took between $4 and $5 worth of postage stamps, about half of which they later dropped along the south bound West Shore railroad track.

The biggest undertaking for the burglars was a fireproof account register, made of steel, which contained no money but simply the various accounts carried by the firm. The account register was locked. It weighs about three hundred pounds, and after getting it to the steps of the store, the burglars procured a wheelbarrow on which they loaded the heavy steel register and wheeled it down the railroad track to the coal pockets owned by Brink Brothers, and there broke it open. Probably they dropped the postage stamps at this time, as some stamps were found along the railroad track and some were lying on the ground at the coal pocket.

Two safes owned by Brink Brothers which did not contain anything except papers and old account books were not touched, the burglars evidently reading the tags which are suspended from the handle of the door of each of the safes giving instructions to burglars how to open them. The tags have been suspended from the safe doors ever since the two safes were blown open by burglars some years ago. As a result of which the combination of each safe was ruined. The Brink Brothers found that the safes were still available for storing old account books, papers, etc., and with the doors shut were a good protection against fire. Accordingly they have continued to use the two safes for that purpose, and in order to avoid unusual damage by burglars have kept the tags hanging to the doors of each safe giving instructions how to open the safes. The receipts of the store and post office are not kept at night in the store.

The greatest loss to Brink Brothers results from the damage to the fireproof account register, which they purchased new just before the war for $225. Such account registers do not cost about $600 or $700. The loss sustained by the breaking of the plate glass is about $75, and the balance of the loss sustained is made up by the goods which were stolen.

Auchmoody Store Also Entered.

The general store of Charles J. Auchmoody, near Mar's Hotel on the Saugerties Road at Lake Katrine, and within easy walking distance of the Brink Brothers' store also was burglarized Monday night, that burglary evidently preceding the entering of the Brink store.

Entrance to the Auchmoody store was gained by breaking a window. The burglars helped themselves liberally to candy, cigarettes and chewing gum, part of which they drew in the Brink store and while they were at the coal pocket with the account register.

Sheriff Kolts was notified by Brink Brothers when they discovered the burglary this morning and went to the scene of both burglaries in company with Deputy Sheriff Jocelyn, Sergeant Cunningham of the State Troopers and Trooper Dutcher.

It is believed that both burglaries were committed by amateurs, probably boys, who afterward made their way to Kingston, either following the Saugerties road or the West Shore railroad tracks.

Dancing occupied the greater part of the evening and delicious punch was enjoyed by all. At twelve o'clock a dainty lunch was served and upon departing each and everyone expressed the desire for a repetition in the near future.

A Surprise Party.

On Friday evening, November 10, a very pleasant surprise party was held at the home of Miss Lela Murdock in honor of Florentine Baker. Games and dancing were enjoyed and some of the popular songs were sung by J. Sullivan, J. Corsiglia and J. Pillsworth. A novelty fox trot was given by Esther Tucker and Edwin Baker. Later in the evening dainty refreshments were served. The following were present: The Misses Lela Murdock, Celestial Smith, Edna Murdock, Fanny Kidney, Marge O'Neill, Anna O'Neill, Sarah Whalen, Esther Tucker, Marion Snyder, Helen Connors, Louise Muccio, Jeanette Hines, Babe Weil, Mildred Schleede, Florentine Baker, Edwin Baker, Mickey Husta, Mickey Ryan, J. Pillsworth, John Redigan, Aloysius Perry, Nelson Miles, John Manning, Aloysius Claire, H. Townsend, Thomas McGraw, Charles Myers, Joseph Corsiglia, Tony Turk, William Brophy, Charles Tucker and James Sullivan. In the wee small hours of the morning the guests departed, voting Miss Murdock a royal entertainer.

A Birthday Surprise.

On Monday evening a birthday surprise was tendered Henry Scott at the Eddyville Inn. During the evening numerous selections were rendered, among them being a tenor solo, "On the Road to Mars," by John Flaherty; a duet, "Those Days Are Over," by Michael Rarey and John Danner; and violin solos by Warren Stokes. A chicken supper was served after which dancing was enjoyed in the beautifully decorated reception room. The prize fox trot was taken by Eugene Schick and Grace Hughes. In the early hours of the morning, after wishing Mr. Scott many more happy birthdays, the guests motored to their homes. Those present were: the Misses Anna Keeler, Eva Londerdyke, Florence Simpson, Grace Hughes, Helen Marconi, Agnes Carter, Myrtle Schoonmaker, Edna Rothenberg, Julia Evans, Emma Howe, Ruth Weber, Viola Smith, Jennie Dunn, Anna Roch, Ger-

BLACK GOWN EVER POPULAR

The black gown always claims its right to recognition, and crepe is the leading material. Of course the skirt must be of uneven length and the bodice plain. This model is attractive.

JACKET BLOUSE IS WELCOME

Garment Will Help Out Milady's Wardrobe; Suitable for Women With Slender Lines.

The jacket blouse is new and something that is going to be welcomed by a lot of women as a means of helping out their wardrobe. The idea started in Paris, where all through the spring and summer they were worn with skirts and waists in different colorings. This is a fashion which should be confined to women with long, slender figures, because on any more robust figures it is quite an unhappy thing to break the line of waist and skirt. However, there are many tall, thin figures in the world and they will look lovely in the jacket blouse.

It is, really, a blouse with a long waistline and a tight, rather wide band about the hips. It is made with a low, rolled collar or with a high one that buttons under the chin, and its material is some heavy colorful fabric suitable to the street, with a covering coat, that makes it a sort of coat in itself—hence its name, the jacket blouse. The favorite material for this kind of blouse is a fabric called matelasse. It has a rather thick, almost quilted, silk surface and over an embroidered design.

These outer blouses are often worn with plaited skirts of black satin or crepe, and they are desirable, too, with the lighter weight woolen materials. They will naturally grow more in favor as the cooler days approach, for they are essentially the thing to wear before one needs to don a coat of any great warmth or weight. They are at their loveliest when more or less brightly colored. There is one sort in black and white which is very effective, the embroidery done in black on a white ground. There is another done in dull tones of red on a background of black. The red ones are extremely good looking and there are others which will thrill those who naturally like to wear costumes of this sort.

THE STOUT WOMAN'S GOWNS

Dresses for the Party Matrons. Line Still Cut With the Low Waist-Line.

Dresses designed for stout figures are still cut with the low waist-line, and both panels and side drapery are employed to relieve the skirt of its otherwise plain appearance. The overlapping side, caught up at the side front with double clasps or cabochons, is never than the panels, which, however, are by no means out of favor. The stout woman has always worn her skirts quite long and therefore not much change in the length is noted. Moderately large sleeves are advocated for stout women, as a tight sleeve emphasizes the circumference of an abnormally sized arm, and where artistic effect is aimed at cord or very slender string girdles are used rather than crushed belt or sash.

The neck outline is round, square or pointed, according to taste. But fashion gives the preference to round necks where they are becoming. The same materials are used for large sizes as for the normal, and dark colors such as black, navy and the warmer, richer tones of brown are shown chiefly.

The Sailor Hat.

A trimming to make the sailor wearable for nearly any occasion is made by sewing ribbon flowers to a detachable hat band. Black or Copenhagen velvet can be put on and off under a bow at the center back. In front, colorful flowers made of any fabric can be sewed on so they will not interfere with the removal of the band. Sewing on the flowers in the flat French fashion is a good style. For this purpose daisies, small rosebuds and forget-me-nots are suitable. Silver or gold ribbon, with green or henna-toned grapes, is another trimming to transform the every-day hat.

PROMISED MUCH.

The people who supported Alfred E. Smith for Governor expect much, and no man ever faced greater responsibility. The platform upon which he ran promised everything, practically, from beer and light wines to cheaper telephone and gas rates and five cent car fare wherever cars are operated. Whether the Democratic platform pledged all these things in delicate language makes little difference, for the fact is the people accepted every Democratic utterance as a promise that they would get increased service at decreased cost, and that beer and light wines would be provided after the election of a Democratic governor.

Notwithstanding what was expected relative to beer and light wines, the Governor-elect, since election, has stated that the modification of the Volstead Act is not a state function. But that it is not a state function was not so declared by the Democratic orators during the campaign. On the contrary, the Republican candidate made this very plain to the people. Then, too, relative to traction and transit affairs the Governor-elect, has said, since election, that for obvious reasons he could not say just what would be done. In the campaign the Democratic orators were very emphatic in leading the people to believe that car fare would be no more than five cents.

As to telephone rates and a reduction in the cost of gas, there are other commodities which must be reduced if the people who rallied to the Democratic candidate are not to be disappointed. The upstate public service commission must be re-organized and one-man plans eliminated if the Democratic pledges are to be carried out to the satisfaction of those who voted for the Democratic candidate on the assumption that he was the one man who would reduce their coal bills, their light bills, their car fare, add to their comfort of living, and at the same time reduce their taxes.

It may be possible for the Governor-elect to do all this, but only time will tell. Of one thing there is no doubt. Two years roll around very quickly and the people today know how to vote against a man just as well as they know how to vote for him. The Governor-elect was chosen largely because of what he was going to do for humanity, and if he does not accomplish all that was promised no one knows the penalty any better than Alfred E. Smith.

THE REAL GERMAN ATTITUDE.

Among the conflicting accounts of the German attitude toward American soldiers in the Rhineland, the most convincing because of its inherent probability is perhaps that of Corliss Hoover Griffin, who has written from personal experience a series of articles giving the observations of two ex-soldiers of Pershing's army during a recent bicycle tour of the war zone in France and the occupied areas in Germany. We have read statements that the American soldiers of the occupation force like Germany better than France not only because of the greater comforts of a more prosperous region, but because they are treated with kindness as well as with deference and respect, and that in consequence they have not only enjoyed their stay at Coblenz but have grown to like the Germans. We have also heard that the Germans have done their best to please our soldiers in order to make a good impression in America, and that they genuinely like our uniformed representatives in the occupied area. But on the subject of the good will of the Germans Mr. Griffin, in his tenth article, says:

To a certain extent this may be true, but only for the reason that they incline to us as the least of a number of evils, and not because they lavish any particular fondness in our direction. It is not difficult to discern that any German hates the French with an undying enmity. It is indeed terrible in its intensity, and disquieting to any one who imagines that the war has taught the Germans a lesson. One gains the impression that their defeat has not crushed any of their aspirations toward France and French territory that it merely has thwarted them. To suffer the French in any part of Germany is a bitter pill for a German to swallow; the seemingly cordial welcome they give to the American Army of Occupation, therefore, is in the nature of a contrast. To them anything is held to be better than the French. On the other hand, we have yet to find an American here who believes that they actually prefer us to any other nationality; it is simply that, least of all can they endure the French. At the same time we have arrived at the conclusion that the average German has also a bit of lurking fear for the American. The German knows that he can not judge the American temperament exactly. He realizes that he has made several very disastrous mistakes in the past in this regard, and he has become a trifle uncertain as to what the American attitude in any given situation may be.

The writer of so well balanced a view wins confidence in his further observations, as, for example, when he says that, although "to the outside world Germany is penniless" and labors to produce that impression for a definite purpose, everywhere there are signs of prosperity, lavishness in expenditures, constant pursuit of pleasure, and extravagant, even wasteful, living—all in sharp contrast with the poverty and hard work in France. "bled white and suffering from her appalling shortage in man power," yet "Soberly and industriously bending every effort to repair the damage that Germany has inflicted." Corliss Griffin is in harmony with inherent probability when he speaks of a systematic and unblinking effort in Germany to fleece all Americans by excessive overcharging and by cheating in currency exchange, and he is confirmed by many other accounts when he says there is absolutely no sign among the Germans of the least beginnings of repentance for the calamity they brought upon themselves and so vast a part of the outside world.

What do you want to know about Nature Subjects? Send any questions of general interest to the Nature Notes Department of this paper, enclosing stamped envelope for reply.

Can You Answer These Questions?
1. What can Arctic birds find to feed on?
2. Why do frogs croak, and do they croak more or less according to the weather?
3. Why do weasels keep so plentiful, no matter what you do to keep them down?

Answer In Tomorrow's Nature Notes.

Answers To Previous Questions.

1. Why do birds have such high body temperature?
Their circulation is very rapid, and the blood is thoroughly subjected to the heating effect of oxygen, as it is exposed to this gas by being rushed through the lungs themselves, and probably gets additional oxygen in the course of circulation by contact with an membranous air-filled sac, stationed in the wings, called the lungs by cells. The body heat is thus kept lively as a fire is intensified by a draft.

2. Do dragonflies fold their wings when resting?
No, they keep all four wings out straight. You may notice that some small transparent winged specimens resembling dragonflies somewhat, fold their wings backward, lengthwise of the abdomen. These are damselflies.

3. Why do sick or wounded fishes swim near the surface?
Some sink to the bottom, but the majority do rise and seek the warmer water of the surface. This may be because the warmth is soothing to an injured body. If the air-bladder is diseased, sometimes the fish cannot go down. If this bladder is injured so that it loses some of its gas, the fish must stay down, and cannot rise. The rising to warmer surface is not always the best thing for the fish's health—cases of infestation by parasites would be relieved by seeking the cold deep waters.

A GUST OF WIND AIDED ROODBOY

Captain of the Famous Gallipers Had Thrilling Deer Hunt Which Ended Successfully—A Twelve Pronged Buck—Another Galliper Tale.

"The mere fact that a man wears his hair long does not indicate that he is a genius," observed Blink Biven.

"None," replied his brother, Zink, "he might not have the price of a hair cut."

The Biven boys together with Raiser Turk and Captain Ralph Roodboy were gathered around the fire place in Roodboy's hunting shack in the mountains, and the discussion had been general until Zink butted in and spoiled one of his brother's pet jokes.

"That joke of yours," continued Zink with a grin "has whiskers on it."

"All it needed was a shave," added Roodboy.

"Never mind," retorted Blink sulkily, "the older they are the more laughs they bring."

"Changing the subject," interrupted Roodboy, "I am going to take another whack out of that big buck I trailed the other day. If it had not been for those blame sparrows I would have landed him at that."

"Want company?" asked Raiser.

"Not this time," replied Roodboy, "I am going to go it alone once more and maybe I'll have better luck this time."

Later in the day Roodboy shouldered his rifle and set forth from the shack. There was a slight breeze but Roodboy figured it would be of advantage to him if he could get to the windward of the deer before he was spotted by the animal.

He had traveled several miles through the woods before he saw the buck trotting ahead of him. Evidently the animal was unaware of being trailed and was traveling slowly. The wind was in the right direction and Roodboy increased his speed and slowly drew closer. As the two sparrows were roosting comfortably on one of the two pious carried by the deer, but they were looking straight ahead and did not see him.

About two hundred yards in front of the animal Roodboy saw a large open space in the forest, and figured that if he could get close enough he would have a chance for an open shot as the animal crossed it.

The animal had gotten about half way across the open space when Roodboy, at the edge, knelt and raised his rifle. Just before he could pull the trigger, however, a heavy gust of wind bore down upon him and in a jiffy he was raised and hurled through the air in the direction of the deer. So fast was the wind traveling that it seemed but an instant later when the gust had blown him upon the back of the deer.

As the deer recoiled the force of the impact it staggered the animal, it to the ground with Roodboy ploughing up the dirt several feet distant where he had landed when hurled from the animal's back. Fortunately Roodboy still held on to his gun and in some unknown manner it became discharged and the charge struck the deer in a vital spot killing it instantly.

Roodboy picked himself up unimpaired and was amazed to find the buck dead. It was a beauty of twelve prongs.

LENDAR BACKS MARY M'SWINEY GIBSON STORY FOODLESS 10 DAYS

Speculated Notation Shows That
Visit to Mrs. Russell Was On Sept. 9 Not Sept. 14, As Latter Asserts.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
New Brunswick, N. J., Nov. 14.—
A new calendar in the home of Jane Gibson, self-claimed eyewitness of the murder of the Rev.
Edward W. Hall, rector of the Episcopal Church of St. John's
in the Evangelist, and the choir-leader, Mrs. James Mills, will play an important part in establishing the truth of Mrs. Gibson's story in the Somerset county grand jury takes up the case.

Postponement of the hearing of the Hall-Mills case by the grand jury from Thursday to next Monday,
made necessary by the swearing
in of a new sheriff of Somerset county today.

The calendar in the case is in the name of Mrs. Gibson. It will be used to prove that Mrs. Russell was in the home on the night of September 9, the date which Mrs. Gibson asserts was the date of the night when Mrs. Gibson called at the Russell home.

Mrs. Russell, in an affidavit,
sworn to before the grand jury, stated that Mrs. Gibson called at her home on the night of September 9, and consequently could not have been upon the Phillips farm where the crime was committed.

When the authorities asked Mrs.
Gibson about the claims of Mrs.
Russell, Mrs. Gibson admitted that she had gone to Mrs. Russell's home to tell her about the theft and recovery of her dog, but that it took place on the night of September 9,
not the 14th.

To prove her story,
Mrs. Gibson produced her calendar upon which she marks down all business transactions and other matters she deems of importance.

On the calendar under date of September 9, was a notation in Mrs.
Gibson's own handwriting saying that she had called upon her neighbor, Mrs. Russell, to ask her advice about the stolen dog.

The writing was studied under a microscope and was found to be old
and covered over with fly specks.
Saying that it had been made some time ago, and before cold weather put an end to the fly plague.

Mrs. Gibson, who conducts her farm upon strict business principles, is a methodical woman and keeps her calendar as a sort of diary and note book. She said she did not tear off the leaves so that at the end of the year she would have a complete record of all her transactions and other affairs that she wished to remember to refer back to.

When the time comes Deputy Attorney General William A. Hall will produce the calendar to prove the reliability of the state's star witness—Mrs. Gibson—who will tell of seeing the "woman in gray" and a man at the scene of the crime and bearing shots by the little crabapple tree on the Phillips farm where the bodies were found on September 16.

The Somerset county authorities
said that they believed that Timothy
A. Pfeiffer, attorney for Mrs. Hall, widow of the slain clergyman—was not over-confident of the reliability of Mrs. Russell and that it was for that reason he took her to his office
in New York city to make the affidavit instead of having it made here.

They believe that Mrs. Russell was sincere in telling of the "big incident" but that she became confused as to the exact date of the conversation.

Mrs. Hall, it is learned, has sent letters in her own handwriting to Alfred C. Gibbs, foreman of the Somerset county grand jury, asking that she be allowed to tell her own story when the grand jury investigation commences. It is not yet decided as to how her request
will be answered.

Supreme Court Justice Charles W.
Parker, whose duty it is to charge
the Somerset county grand jury,
is expected home from his vacation
Sunday.

JAP KIDS ARE ALERT

Tests Show Them Equal in Intelligence to Americans.

California Professors Make an Extensive Study of the Intelligence of American-Born Children of Japanese.

Los Angeles.—Japanese boys and girls between the ages of ten and fifteen, in the schools of Los Angeles and San Francisco, are the mental equals of the average American pupils in the same schools, but they lag behind the Americans in the smaller cities of the state.

Thus Prof. N. L. Darsie, assistant dean of the University of California,
southern branch, gave the preliminary results of an extensive statewide study of the intelligence of the American-born children of Japanese residents. Tests were conducted by him and Prof. L. N. Terman of Stanford university.

They were undertaken at the request of the Japanese Association of America, which desired to know how Japanese children compared in intelligence with American children and those of other races. The organization appropriated $10,000 for the work
and "turned it over without strings"
to Stanford university for that purpose.

Professor Darsie stated, after an examination of 600 boys and girls, he and his colleagues had concluded that
"from a standpoint of intelligence, the Japanese are a more desirable class of immigrants than the people of southern Europe," but he emphasized
he was speaking "only from a standpoint of mental ability," and was not considering "economic problems."

No difference between American and Japanese children was found in regard to honesty and truthfulness, as compiled from teachers' records.

An interesting fact, disclosed by the test, was, despite the fact Japanese was the language spoken by the children in their homes, most of them
spoke English better than Japanese.

- Quarrels of publicity.

McBRIDE DRUG STORES

FOR BETTER PULPIT DELIVERY

Enterprise Started in New York to Teach Art of Eloquence to Preachers.

Ingersoll used to say that on the stage they pretend to be natural, and in the pulpit it is natural to pretend.
It was a wicked saying when printed without the winning smile; but what would he have said had he heard of a theater school organized to teach preachers, not how to act, but how to use their voices to the best advantage?

Such an enterprise is now afoot in New York city, conducted by Evelyn Hall, an actress, under Theater school auspices—which proves that the melodious Preacher of Jerusalem was wrong when he said there is nothing new under the sun. Nor is it a thing to be laughed at. Many a good sermon is spoiled because the preacher
does not know how to deliver it. Surely, if the preacher has the best of good news to tell, he ought to use every aid of art to tell it. Joseph Parlier learned much from his friend,

Sir Henry Irving, and Beecher used to study Edwin Booth—asking him to repeat the Lord's Prayer, that he might hear it in a manner worthy of its depth and beauty. As between an untaught voice and an artificial elocution
there is little to choose; but without going to either extreme there is an art of using the voice which brings out its natural quality and power, and it should be employed in the service of the Gospel.—Christian Century.

They are telling a story around the

who is most punctilious in the manner in which he draws all the contracts
for the company of which he is president. It appears that a short time ago he came to Washington prepared to close a deal involving a small amount of money. When the papers were finally typed he scanned them carefully, and when about to affix his signature he was asked by one of the other parties of the deal to use his fountain pen, as he wanted to keep it as a souvenir of the occasion. Rather appreciating the compliment, he did so, and that night extricated for Boston. A day or two after his arrival home he had occasion to look up the contract, and found, to his dismay, that there were no signatures to the agreement. His Washington friends had simply made him use a fountain pen that was filled with disappearing ink. When the hoax was explained to him by wire he sent back

the following message: "Returning with my own ink. The dinner is on me."—Washington Star.

DEMOCRATS TO HAVE FREE HAND

Despite Republican Majority in Assembly, Governor Smith's Measures Will Be Promptly Passed.

Albany, Nov. 14.—Word has gone out from Republican state headquarters in New York city, according to persons at the state capitol who claim to be on the "inside," that there is to be no blocking of any of Governor-elect Smith's legislation in the Assembly during the coming session of the Legislature. The Democrats, according to the account of an alibi at the capitol, are to be given everything they want along legislative lines.

Despite the fact that the Republicans will have a majority of 14 in the lower house, and probably could make things disagreeable for the Democrats if they wanted to, under present plans all of the Democratic bills are to be passed in the lower house.

While Simon L. Adler of Rochester, a Republican, is certain to be re-elected majority leader in the Assembly, indications are that Charles D. Donohue of New York, who will be re-elected minority leader, will be about as important a figure in the lower house as Adler.

Mr. Adler was at his office in the capitol yesterday going over some state business. When asked if it was not a fact that the Republicans already had decided to pass all Democratic measures in the Assembly he smiled and said he really could not discuss the matter at this time.

It is said that this reported policy by the Republicans has the O. K. of Governor Miller and R. Edmund Warfield of Jefferson, who is certain to be re-elected speaker of the Assembly.

While Gov. Miller has said that on January 1, he will retire to private life there is a feeling at the capitol that he is going to take quite an important part in Republican matters in the next two years, even though he will be just a plain citizen. It is said on good authority that as soon as Gov. Miller learned that the Republicans would have a majority in the Assembly, while the Democrats would control the Senate, he at least was not immediately told the Republican state leaders that he believed it would be a political mistake to try to block Democrats measures in the lower house of the Legislature. "If we give the Democrats everything they want and any mistakes are made, then we will have some material for the next gubernatorial campaign, but if we try to block them in the Assembly then they will have an alibi," is the way one prominent Republican at the capitol summed up the outlook for the next two years.

INTERNATIONAL "Y" CONVENTION

M. S. Safford and F. C. Freeman are the local Y. M. C. A. delegates to the triennial convention of the Young Men's Christian Associations of North America, to be held at Atlantic City, N. J., November 14-19.

This convention, the first in the history of the organization, is recognized throughout the 2,200 associations in the United States and Canada as in certain respects the most important. This is not only because of growth in membership and activities since the 1919 convention in Detroit but because special attention will be given to the organization and relationships of the general agencies—such as the State and International committees—to the various local associations, and to the basis of active membership in the associations. This latter subject is not a new one at these conventions but is always of interest because it involves the question of whether active membership would require membership in evangelical churches.

The call for the convention, signed by Alfred K. Marling, chairman, and Dr. John R. Mott, general secretary, of the International committee, states that "probably never before have we been called together to counsel about more varied or more important issues."

At these triennial conventions, the International committee—composed of some 200 business and professional men from all states of the Union and Province of Canada—is elected by the several thousands delegates. The latter also formulate policies and instructions to guide the committee's course as general agent of the North American Associations in their foreign countries.

The forthcoming convention will receive the reports of commissions which have been at work, some of them for several years, on matters vitally affecting the various associations. These include commissions on approach to the churches, occupation of the field, policies and processes of raising money for the International committee, and Army and Navy work.

It is expected that the delegates sent to the forthcoming convention will be composed more largely than ever of laymen rather than of employed officers. Delegates are chosen by vote of active members or by the

TURKS WIDENING RIOT AMONG ALLIES

Ismet Pasha, Ottoman Diplomat, Tries to Draw France Further From Britain—No Date Set For Peace Conference.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Lausanne, Switzerland, Nov. 14.—Despite the Turkish protestations of peace, Turkish diplomacy, notorious for its cunning and insidiousness, is at work today to split the Allies and perhaps embroil Europe in another great war.

England and France are at loggerheads over the course to be pursued at the Near East peace conference when it convenes here. They have not been able to agree upon a program nor even the date of the party.

Lord Curzon wants a preliminary meeting held in London to arrange the details. Premier Poincare of France will not go to London.

General Sir Charles Harrington, British commander at Constantinople, wants to proclaim martial law at once. He is opposed by General Pella, the French high commissioner, who is supported by the Italians.

The dissensions between the Allied governments have fostered a spirit of arrogant aggressiveness among the Turkish Nationalist leaders, especially the extremists in the Ankara Assembly.

With the wily diplomacy for which they have long been noted, the Turkish peace delegation in Switzerland are proclaiming pacific intentions.

"Turkey is a democracy and it is striving for peace," declared Ismet Pasha, head of the Turkish delegation. "Our only claim is that Turkey be recognized as an independent nation on the same equality as other nations. Turkey in the future will not be ruled by a religious head. The caliphate will be of purely religious character. Turkey will be ruled by the head of the democratic government and the assembly."

"Turkey will not be a vassal state any more, the pawn of more powerful countries. We want peace and we have come here to debate the conditions of peace. We do not intend to capitulate before any ultimatum either."

Ismet Pasha hinted at "powerful friends" of Turkey, intimating that negotiations will be under way to frame an alliance between Turkey and Soviet Russia.

The Turkish leader went as he described the outrages which, he claimed, retreating Greek soldiers committed in Asia Minor. He said that many villages were completely wiped out.

"The Turks wanted peace before they started the offensive which defeated the Greeks," continued Ismet Pasha. "We want peace now. The day will come when humanity will recognize Turkey's just cause."

The Turkish leader said that he was anxious for the United States to play an active part in the Near East peace conference. He said the Turks had confidence in the justice of Americans. The Turks expressed deep anger over the refusal of the Allies to allow Russia to have a full part in the party.

After a conference with his colleagues, Ismet Pasha decided to go to Paris for a preliminary meeting with Premier Poincare and perhaps other Allied diplomats before the Near East conference opens. He probably will arrive in Paris Wednesday or Thursday.

Throughout the whole Near East trouble France has remained friendly with the Turks, having concluded a treaty with the Ankara government. The Turkish Nationalists are more hopeful of aid and sympathy from the French in the peace conference than from any other power.

CHURCH BANQUET AT OLIVE BRIDGE

Olive Bridge, Nov. 14.—The banquet which was given by the three churches of the Olive Bridge Church, at 1 O. O. F. Hall on Wednesday evening, November 11, was a most enjoyable affair.

One hundred thirty-two people from the three churches partook of a most tempting and beautiful repast, prepared by the ladies of the church.

Later, the pastor, the Rev. S. Robbins, with a few well chosen remarks, introduced District Superintendent Orin, who spoke on, "The Local Church." He placed emphasis on the fact that while the pastor of a church had charge of its spiritual welfare, the laymen must look after the financial matters and he made a strong plea for the endowment fund for superannuated preachers.

The main address of the evening was given by Dr. Farmer, who was a missionary in the Philippines for fifteen years. He is a very forcible and interesting speaker and he held the close attention of his audience during his address on "Domestic and Foreign Missions."

Everyone pronounced the occasion a great success and many expressed the hope that we might have another meeting soon.

"FORTY TWO," SAYS CLERK AND WOMAN QUITS POLITICS.
Women Won't Vote If They Have to Tell Age.

Editor, The Freeman:
Your editorial last night about women not voting hands me a laugh. I'm going to tell you why lots of women refuse to vote and you never even thought of the real reason so I'll give you a chance to laugh back at us.

I voted this time but I swear I won't do it again unless things are changed. I am an unmarried woman and I'm forty-two and I don't look it. Several years ago when I first registered, I felt so important and kind of solemn that I was foolish enough to tell my real age. I was in the thirties then and it didn't make so much difference, but anyhow it went on record.

Now that big stiff that puts down the names ought to know by looking at me that I'm old enough to vote. Why the dickens can't he put down 25 or 26 and let it go at that? Oh No! He not only writes down the horrible truth but he sings it out so all the other people in the place can be in on the facts.

So when I went over this time, I see a woman come in right behind me who lives across the street from me and she is about my age, and has a perfectly good husband and three children and a dog, all of which I haven't got, but she looks older than me on account never having been able to afford a permanent wave and hats like mine, and that's all I've got on her. So when my eye lit on her, I says to the man in charge and distinct "Thirty seven," and he looks in an eight by ten foot book left from the last election, and gives me a nasty grin and sings out "Forty two" in a voice you could hear a mile.

There was at least ten men and three women in that place and it didn't get by any of them, believe me. Especially that neighbor of mine. She smiled and said "Lovely day, isn't it and do you think I will be elected?" but that isn't what her eyes said.

Now I ask you, is that the way to get women to vote? We may be nuts to care, and all the men say how ridiculous, but that's the way we are, just like cats don't like water we don't like to tell our old we are, and we were born that way and we can't help it. So if they want us to vote they gotta change the way of doing it.

I don't give one hurrup who's elected after this, I'm going to move outa town where nobody knows me and start life over.

A WOMAN VOTER.

AMSTERDAM PLAYS HERE WEDNESDAY RUTH FLEES THE WHITE LIGHTS

Wednesday evening at the armory
the Kingston State League quintet
will take the court for its sixth contest undefeated. Its opponents will be the Amsterdam aggregation. This game will bring together the league leaders and the fall leaders, Amsterdam, having played six games without a win.

This will be the second meeting
this season of these clubs, Kingston pulling out a win at the up-state court by a 24 to 22 score. Amsterdam has a number of well known basketball stars in its lineup. Smolick and Wassmer are veterans of the game and their work has always been noticeable. "Manager" Morgenweck
will undoubtedly use the same lineup to start the game, that has been performing in the past. Six straight victories will sure look good for the local representatives, but strange things happen in the field of sports.

TWO HARVARD QUARTERS OUT WITH INJURIES

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Cambridge, Mass., Nov. 14.—Fear that Charley Buell, captain and quarterback of the Harvard 'varsity,
would not be able to play against Yale, November 25, were expressed today when the player continued to move about on crutches as the result of an injury sustained in the Princeton game. Buell twisted his ankle when thrown to the ground
after making a forward pass.

Spaulding, the first substitute quarterback, also sustained a wrenched leg in the Princeton game,
but is expected to appear against Brown on Saturday for a part of the contest.

NEW CENTER FIELDER FOR MCGRAW'S TEAM

By Telegram to The Freeman.

New York, Nov. 14.—John Mc-Graw, manager of the world's champion Giants, declared today his intention of starting Jimmy O'Connell in center field for the local club
next spring and of keeping him
there as long as his work justified
his place in the regular lineup.
O'Connell is the young outfielder
who was purchased from San Francisco last winter for a sum said to be $75,000.

"Every chance will be afforded
him to make good," said McGraw.

NEIDINGER TO PLAY QUARTERBACK FOR YALE

By Telegram to The Freeman.

New Haven, Conn., Nov. 14.—It became known here today that Newell Neidinger and not Charley O'Hearn will guide the Yale team against Princeton in the Tiger stadium on Saturday. O'Hearn has not scrimmaged in six weeks and while his physical condition is almost sound, it has been decided that Neidinger has earned his spurs at quarterback with Becket as first assistant. O'Hearn, however, may be rushed into the game at some backfield position in the late periods.

An Investment By The People For The People

Electric light and power company securities represent the favorite form of investment in the country today.

They are owned by nearly one and one-half million individual investors whom they serve daily. More people have invested in them than in any other, with the single exception of Liberty Bonds.

The big insurance companies have invested some $300,000,000 and the banks of the country $1,700,000,000 in this class of security.

This remarkable record is due to the fact that such securities combine to a high degree, the following features that make them especially valuable from an investment standpoint:

- 1—Safety of Principal
- 2—Dependability of Income
- 3—Good Rate of Interest
- 4—The money is used locally and helps to develop the community.

According to the Babson Statistical Bureau, there is not quite one-fifth the risk in public utility securities that there is in industrial; just one-fifth the risk as compared with railroads and practically the same risk as with national bank securities—the last being second only to our Government securities.

You now have the opportunity to subscribe to First Mortgage 6% Gold Bonds, the proceeds of which will finance the construction of a new and larger water power development at Rifton and the extension of a steel tower transmission line to bring additional power from Adirondack sources.

date to Cumulative Preferred Stock paying 7%. Ask for complete information.

Petroleum Fires.

An American consular officer in France has furnished some interesting details concerning the manufacture and use of petroleum briquets as fuel.
It appears that these briquets weigh only half as much as coal, and that they produce twice as much heat. They keep indefinitely in good condition, it is said; are in no way dangerous, give off no smoke or odor, and burn with a very white flame, eight or ten inches high. They consist of petroleum, either crude or refined, mixed with certain chemicals, the precise nature of which is a trade secret, and solidified
in molds under a pressure of 300
pounds per square inch.

Church Vessels Stolen.

Sacred vessels stolen from the Rus-

were of considerable commercial as well as intrinsic value. The vessels were of silver and ornamented with precious stones. They were originally presented to the church by members of the Russian Imperial family. It is believed that the thieves, who broke open the cabinet in which the vessels were kept, had hidden themselves in the cellar of the church during the service.

HAIR DRESSERS HOPE HAIR BOBBING IS ENDED.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
New York, Nov. 14.—Women's hair dressers, who have been sitting back the past couple of years knocking the bob-hair craze among the flappers and contemplating bankruptcy, were told to perk up today
by delegates attending the annual hair dressing and trade exhibition of the New York Ladies' Hair Dressers' Association at the Hotel Pennsylvania.

There was a great deal of technical talk relating to rats, buns, switches, frizzes, puffs and artificial curls. There were loud cheers
when the announcement was made that bobbed hair has gone out of style, and that penitent flappers are now waiting in line at hair dressing parlors to get artificial contrivances
to give them the appearance of having long, Grecian tresses—the kind that mother used to wear.

NAVY FIGHT IS ON IN CONGRESS

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Washington, Nov. 14.—The "big"
and "little" navy fight in congress
opened today in the House appropriations committee when a start was made on the navy supply bill for the fiscal year 1923-24, beginning next July.

Representative Kelly, Republican,
of Michigan, chairman of the naval appropriation committee, is a "little"
navy man and he will dominate his committee in holding down appropriations for the navy.

Secretary Denby and the naval experts are arrayed against Kelly, and are prepared to stage a vigorous fight in the general appropriations committee for money to sustain a navy as large as allowed by the armament limitation conference agreement.

Kelly is backed to win in the committee fight and the contest will have to be carried to the floor of the house.
President Harding is expected ultimately to take a hand in the navy dispute as he did last spring, and draw his influence behind the advocates of a "big" navy. In the last fight, the "little" navy men were determined to cut the navy to a maximum strength of 75,000, although their first proposal was for a navy of 67,000 men. Secretary Denby demanded 96,000 men as the least of which the navy could be maintained at the standard authorized by the armament limitation conference.

With the little navy men about to win the conflict, the president wrote Congressman Longworth of Ohio that congress should not go below 86,000
as the minimum strength for the navy and his recommendation prevailed over the protest of Kelly and other leaders. The president may be forced to take similar action this winter because Secretary Denby and General Lord, director of the budget,
are deadlocked on navy estimates
and General Lord will not accede to the secretary's estimates for appropriations larger than those for the present year. The house committee is likely to slash still further the budget estimates.

ARREST THIRD NEGRO MONDAY

Plenary and State Trooper Lounsbury Arrested Negro Ball at Prattville and Return With Roscoe Benson—Held for Grand Jury.

Monday night Police Sergeant Lounsbury and State Trooper Lounsbury visited a negro ball at Prattville and placed Roscoe Benson, a negro, under arrest on a charge of being one of the bandits that held up and robbed Oscar Jackson, a negro, on Locust avenue.

This morning Roscoe Benson was arrested in police court before Judge Schirick and waived examination to await the action of the next grand jury. He was fixed at $4,000, the amount in which Oscar Jackson was accused of the same crime, are held under.

Later in the morning Adams also was examined and bail was fixed at $4,000. Oscar, however, demanded an examination and his hearing was adjourned to Friday afternoon.

From the information lodged with the police department by Oscar Jackson, and substantiated by Charles H. Haskins, Jr., of No. 43 Hasbrouck street, Jackson engaged a negro who had been in Jones's place at Mill street. Jackson engaged a negro who is a taxi driver, to drive him to his home. The three other negroes and Melvin Hornbeck of Gill street, a white man, got into the car when they got as far as Hutton's street. Jackson is accused of ordering Benson to stop the car and then getting out on the running board with a revolver in his hand and ordering Benson to elevate his hands.

Partian was also threatened with a revolver.

Hornbeck and Jackson were then arrested and later Partian was forced to drive Green, Benson and Adams back to Kingston.

The police have been working on the case for some time, aided by State trooper Lounsbury.

WOERNER HAD CLARE ARRESTED

Alms That Jack Clare Fired at Him Twice With a Revolver, but Missed Him Both Times—Woerner Is Also Under Arrest—To Throsh Case Out.

The troubles between William Woerner and Jack Clare of Murray street will be thoroughly aired next Monday in city court before Judge Schirick. Both are under arrest, and both were admitted to bail this morning by Judge Schirick.

Saturday night the police department received a not call from Murray street saying that Woerner was on a rampage again. He was placed under arrest and arraigned this morning on a charge of public intoxication which he, through his attorney, Mrs. J. Flanagan, entered a plea of guilty.

Monday Woerner swore out a warrant for Jack Clare charging that early Sunday morning while he was standing on Murray street Clare came out with a revolver and fired twice at him, but missed both times. Woerner's statement is backed with an affidavit from Jacob Sessler who claims he saw the shots fired.

Woerner was recently convicted in police court and is now out on bail pending an appeal he had taken from the sentence imposed at that time by Judge Schirick.

Clare had retained Attorney Goughlin.

"Plan—The Investor's Welfare"

OWSLEY DENIES GROS'S CHARGES

By Telegraph to The Freeman. Indianapolis, Ind., Nov. 14.—Alvin G. Owsley, national commander of the American Legion, today denied allegations of Dr. Edmund L. Gros, commander of the department of continental Europe of the American Legion, that the New Orleans convention of the Legion was governed by mob rule, and that the ex-service men had conducted themselves in a disorderly manner.

"The statements seem to be somewhat extravagant," the commander said. "You will notice that he does not say that he saw the things that are alleged to have happened."

"The attitude of the American Legion and the constructive legislation accomplished by the organization at New Orleans would counteract any rumors that might come to us regarding the actions of the members," said Owsley.

"We must remember there were from 40,000 to 50,000 ex-service men, mostly between the ages of 22 and 25 years, all bent upon having a good time, but in an orderly manner. It was a sort of armistice affair when the boys were meeting their 'buddies' in a good American way."

"There have been no complaints come to me regarding such actions. It would be a good thing to have statements from the people at New Orleans who entertained us, regarding our actions."

Commander Owsley, in speaking of the liquor question, said as long as the Eighteenth amendment was a part of the national constitution, the American Legion was bound to stand for its enforcement. The question will not be discussed by the Legion, he said, because of its refusal to enter into politics.

BOY SCOUTS

(Conducted by National Council of the Boy Scouts of America)

CONFERENCE AT PARIS

Imagination is apt to run away with conservation under the stimulation of such an event in the boy scout movement of the international conference recently held at Paris, at which 140 delegates represented the scouting movement in 30 different countries.

Not so much the definite things done, as the spirit of the occasion, starts thoughts of the far-reaching influence to be released to the world through devoted and intelligent scout leadership.

But it was not in the clouds alone that a vision was caught of a world-wide movement for character building and citizenship training of boys. In the sober judgment of representatives of many nations, the boy scout idea is capable of definitely influencing international peace and prosperity and human welfare the world around.

Three American delegates, Clarence H. Howard and Walter W. Head, of the executive board, and James E. West, chief scout executive, reached Europe a few days in advance of the conference.

Lorne W. Barclay, director of the educational department, joined the delegation at Paris, but Hon. Myron T. Herrick, United States ambassador to France, chairman of the delegation, was compelled to be absent on official business in this country.

There are now 32 nations adhering to the international scout bureau, and 30 of these were represented by delegates. The totals of scout membership ship through the world were reported as approximately 900,000 scouts and 150,000 scout leaders, of which number 403,152 scouts and 120,430 leaders were reported from the United States.

Sir Robert Baden Powell was made the permanent presiding officer. Mr. West was made chairman of the committee on resolutions and was assigned by the permanent chairman to handle the business session when resolutions were considered.

Thirty-six resolutions were presented for the consideration of the conference, most of which were eventually left in the hands of a permanent committee of nine men created by the conference.

This permanent committee was given power to decide upon the admission of scout organizations, subject to veto upon opposition of three countries, to draw up the program and regulations for future conferences, supervise financial management of the international bureau and appointment of its director and to represent the international conference between biennial meetings and provide such constitution and by-laws as may be necessary to conduct the work of the international bureau, also to fill vacancies in its own membership.

The appointment of this permanent committee was the chief result of the conference, and takes importance from the fact that the various regulations and recommendations made by the delegates as well as the inspirational aid in his dresses made head up in that committee for effective expression in guiding the progress of the boy scout movement as a world force.

WISE OLD SHIPS

Believed to Guard the Safety of Crews at Sea.

That Vessels Are Possessed of Good and Evil Spirits, Is Belief of Ancient Mariners.

"It is not wise to scoff or to laugh in one's sleeve at such notions as that of the 'knowingness' of ships," says a writer in the Nautical Magazine, the organ of the mercantile marine officers, quoted by the London Daily News.

"Men have sailed in vessels and have come ashore swearing that they are possessed of an evil spirit."

"There are ships which are more than unfortunate; they seem to look for trouble on their own initiative and often succeed in finding it."

"But there are few sailors who do not believe, little as they care to discuss these matters, that a ship is imbued with a 'something' which makes her almost a sentient being."

"I think it is Conrad who tells the story of the ship which never failed to answer the slightest touch of her helm, save on one occasion."

"And on that particular one, had the course been changed as intended, she would have run at a good ten knots into a big chunk of ice, detached from some disintegrating berg and floating a few feet beneath the surface."

"As it was, she slid by, with the deadly menace a biscuit's throw from her, and then answered her helm as anticipated."

"I have in mind a very popular liner that sails out of the Mersey and across the western ocean."

"Captain and officers cherish a real affection for her and passengers are loud in praise of her."

"There was a cyclone on the eastern side of the Atlantic."

A French boat arrived at Le Havre with superstructure and boats damaged and wireless antennae blown away, after running before wind and sea for 18 hours.

"Another passenger vessel from America arrived in Plymouth sound battered and battered, reporting that the weather had 'brought her to a standstill' for a day and a night, what time heavy seas had caused considerable damage."

"But our Liverpool friend is a wise old craft. She evaded the cyclone—almost. She just caught the tail end of it and got a bit of a dusting."

"You may argue that the captain received wireless messages telling him of the progress and anticipated course of the storm."

"Of course he did. But so did the masters of the other two ships, yet they encountered the full force of it."

"It must be that our ship from the Mersey is one of those good craft that one hears of occasionally—one of those ships that know how to look after themselves."

The writer denies that sailors are romantic, but admits that all ranks and grades are superstitious and fatalistic.

"But," he adds, "no one shall say that it is harmful to any man that the sailor has a profound faith in his superstitions. There may be some thing in them after all, for one gets very near to Nature in midocean."

Hairs Help Unravel Mysteries.

In the consideration of many police cases such as mysterious murders there is often present evidence in the shape of hair in the wounds or in the fingers of victims. Heretofore there has been made little use of this for the lack of knowledge concerning it.

The importance of this subject thrust itself upon the notice of John A. Ford of the police department of Berkeley, Cal., and he has made a very thorough investigation into the characteristics of hair of human beings and the lower animals. He has hundreds of specimens, many of which have been examined under the microscope and their characteristics noted.

Rabbit hair on a hatchet with which a murder has been done was the means of tracing the crime to a man who owned the implement and who had used it to kill a rabbit with shortly before the murder.

Whales on English Farm.

Farm hands digging celery on a farm near Peterborough, England, recently came upon the skeletons of two whales, dating back, it is supposed, 10,000 to 12,000 years. The whales were lying side by side under the peat, and just embedded in the clay. It is conjectured that many thousand years ago these whales, and perhaps others, swam up a creek, when the wash came farther inland, and got caught at the top of a spring tide in a place where they were unable to turn. Another theory has been advanced, though it is rather far-fetched. Some years ago a prehistoric boat was dug up in the same field, and the suggestion has been made that the crew of the boat was hunting the whales at that particular period.

Longer Experience.

"Now, looky yur, Gloriosa!" grumbled old man Dodder to Fiddle Creek. "Don't you be sending for young Doc Frattile to come and see me. He can't do me no good."

"Oh, yes; he can, Gram'paw!" retorted the invalid's youthful relative. "He's been practicing medicine for 'most two years now, and—"

POLISH SOCIETY'S HOME COMPLETED

The Polish Sick and Aid Society announces the completion of its new home on Delaware avenue. The building consists of a large auditorium, suitable for dances, private theatricals, etc., having a large stage and a handsome oil painted drop curtain, a large banquet hall with all accessories, and lodge rooms.

The scene depicted on the drop curtain in the auditorium commemorates the memory of the great Polish general, General Tadeusz Kosciuszko, whose history is also well known in this country. He has long fought for the freedom of the American colonies and after the Revolutionary War.

Poland, inspired by the high ideals of our freedom, attempted to free Poland. Falling in this he went to Switzerland, and lived there until his death.

A few days ago there was unveiled at West Point a statue, also commemorating the memory of General Kosciuszko.

The society thank, the following for their efforts in making the home complete and a credit to the city: The Niece, the well known architect, Campbell and McLeod, contractors, Mr. Bannan is putting in the metal ceiling. The electrical work is by Mr. DeCarro and the fixtures by Tudor Brothers. The interior decorations and curtain by N. A. Horton of Bloomingdale. This is Mr. Horton's initial contract in this city and the scene decorations to him credit. The floor, trim and some other carpenter work was done by Ignatz Slonec.

Announcement of the opening of the home to the public will be made later.

CHAMPLIN COMPANY'S SCENERY WAS DELAYED

Delay in harbor transportation in New York in the early hours of Monday prevented the car of scenery used by the Charles K. Champlin Stock from reaching the west side of the Hudson river in sufficient time for the stock company to open its week's engagement at the Kingston Opera House Monday afternoon as advertised. The scenery did not reach the opera house until four o'clock in the afternoon.

The company opened its week's engagement Monday evening with the famous play, "East is West," which had a remarkably long run in New York city. The company is practically the same which has supported Mr. Champlin in other visits to Kingston during the past few years. The play Monday night was well staged and measured fully up to the standard of Champlin productions.

Tonight's presentation by the company will be "Experience," an allegorical drama somewhat similar to "Every Man."

Sex of Cities.

As viewed by the advertising man looking in all directions for business, cities and communities all have character. Indeed, it is said that some have sex. Pittsburgh, Gary, Youngstown and Akron are predominantly masculine. Stores catering exclusively to women would not prosper in those cities to anything like the degree that they would in such "feminine" communities as Haverhill, Lynn, Lowell or Fall River.

First Users of Cigarettes?

The cigarette was popular in Spain in the latter part of the Eighteenth century. The cigarette was invented in the Spanish West Indies at least as far back as 1750, and in his "Travels in Spain," published in 1775, Richard Twiss refers to the many Spaniards who "smoke tobacco shred fine and wrapped up in a piece of paper."

BALFOUR NO HERO TO CADDY

Young American of Chevy Chase outspoken in His Opinion of Great British Diplomat.

Lord Balfour liked a good yarn, even at his own expense, and he told one to us at a dinner of which he was the center at the British embassy at Washington.

It was a splendid weighty function, worthy of pre-war days, when Europe was neither depressed nor hysterical. Some one had spoken of Balfour in complimentary fashion, of his great brain and his work at the conference, and he replied that this consoled him for an occurrence at Chevy Chase club, where he had gone to play golf the day previous.

Finding no one he knew about, he engaged a caddy and started off, walking and chatting with the latter.

He asked the caddy's opinion about the use of a certain club. The boy gave advice, which Lord Balfour attempted to follow; but he missed the shot. Caddy took the club, illustrated his explanations, also missed the ball; but further explained this was because he was too short for the club. Lord Balfour again tried to follow caddy's instructions and again missed; whereupon caddy eyed him and remarked in solemn sincerity: "Gee, if I was as tall as you or you had my brains, what golf we could play!"—Princess Cantacuzene in the Saturday Evening Post.

Country's Farm Population.

Recent statistics sent out by the census authorities show that the farm population of the United States is only 31,014,209, a little less than 30 per cent of the total. This includes farm operators and farm laborers and their families, who live in the country, and shows an average of about five persons to each farm. About half the people in the nation are classified as rural—that is, they live in the country or in towns having fewer than 2,500 inhabitants, but only 61 per cent of the "rurals" are actually engaged in farming. Thus 30 per cent of the rural population and the entire city population must be fed by the men engaged in agriculture. It gives the farmer a big job. Only a few years ago each farmer had to provide his own family and one other family—now he must furnish food for nearly three other families besides his own. His occupation should not fail.

Remarkable Gratitude.

Fred Grieger, Munich clothing merchant, is tenderhearted. He says so himself. One evening recently he was driving in the country when he noticed a rabbit sitting in the road, apparently dazed by his automobile lights. Fearing he would run over it, he stopped the car, and taking it gently in his arms, placed it by the roadside, expecting it to hop away into the neighborhood fields, but instead, according to Grieger, it gave a rollocking jump and landed in the car. Now the animal will not leave him, out of gratitude, Grieger believes, for having saved its life.

Grieger intends to use the rabbit as a decoy for other rabbits when he goes hunting, he says.—Indianapolis News.

Great Britain's Earthquakes.

Consternation is reported to have been caused in England recently at points 25 miles distant from one another by earthquakes. Seismic shocks were experienced at Humberston in Worcestershire, a few miles from Droitwich (famous for its salt baths), and as far away as Bathwick, in Warwickshire. In the latter county reports of similar earth tremors came from such places as Exe, Solihull, Henley-in-Ardens, Hampton-in-Ardens, Mordun and Sparkhill, near Birmingham. In Wimbeldon the postmistress was thrown some distance across a room and her next-door neighbor was almost hurled out of an arm chair in which he was sitting.

The Native, Ayrith

By CALVIN HENDRICKS

Copyright, 1922, Western Newspaper Union.

"I do not think much of your choice, Blanche."

"Do you mean of home or of husband, Marcella?"

"Both. Walter is certainly as much in love with you as when he married you, but I would resent a husband bringing me to this unendurably desolate spot—no society, no comfort, no future, nothing but wallowing natives and a hot, blistering sun."

"Yet we hope for a future, sister dear," said Blanche in her cheery, optimistic way.

Very humble, indeed, was the present position of young Walter Burton. He had been an under clerk in the employ of the government. A congressman took a liking to him and had secured for him his present position as consul at Beirut, an obscure city in India. Just married, he and his wife had been there now for about half a year. Mrs. Marcella Burnham, the widowed sister of Blanche, was visiting them.

"I pity you, Blanche," she now said, glancing sourly at the flat, uninteresting expanse of low habitations and treeless plains before her. "I have certainly outlasted you, older though I am. Next month, as you know, I am to marry Count Tolferd. They say he is very rich."

"For mercy's sake here!" shouted Marcella, sharply, staring down the road. "There is that philanthropic husband of yours with a new pension—in town, I fancy."

Walter, how can you interest yourself in these ignorant, worthless people?" chided Marcella. "Your clothing is covered with dust from contact with that fe. ow."

"A poor fellow, indeed," replied Walter, pityingly. "You will not wonder at his condition when I tell you that I found him lying by the wayside, creeping on hands and knees, bound for Calcutta."

"Why did he do it?" inquired the widow, with a indifferent curiosity.

"As a penalty. He was starving and stole a measure of meal. The law put him at a year of hard labor. The priest of his sect fined him twenty taels, or the horrible ordeal he was undergoing."

"And you paid his fine, I infer?" spoke Marcella, contemptuously.

"I could not resist doing it," replied Walter.

The widow left them a few days later to meet her affianced husband at Naples. The native, Ayrith, whom Walter had taken under his protecting wing, became domesticated as a useful, loyal servant.

Walter was a good deal surprised to find how useful Ayrith became to him as the weeks passed on. Most of the consular functions consisted in passing upon export duties and the standing of business houses in the district. It was remarkable how well Ayrith was posted on these details. One day he came to Walter, evidently full of some subject that interested him greatly, for a half suppressed excitement was visible in his manner.

"Shah!," he said, "I learn."

"Learn what, Ayrith?" inquired Walter in his kindly way.

"The guilds—those who export the wicker, the bamboo, the beads, the tinseils. They laughed at your country—the great land I love because you are of there. They boast to pay but little duties, because they say 'material raw' and 'goods fancy' when it is really 'fabrics'!"

"That night the consul went over his tariff files. He made an important discovery."

Walter fully reported his discovery and opinions to the authorities at Washington. Just two months later he came into the house with a fluttering strip of paper in his hand.

"Look, Blanche," he said buoyantly. "Our ship has come in!"

"Your discoveries will lead to a change of classification," the official letter read, "that will increase import duties over $2,000,000 a year. You are transferred as consul general to Singapore at four thousand dollars per annum."

It was under widely changed residential conditions that Mrs. Burnham dropped in upon them unexpectedly a few weeks later. The Burtons occupied a beautiful bungalow, set in the midst of a lovely garden.

"How superb!" pronounced the capricious Marcella. "I would be content to live in this earthly Paradise forever."

"You will be surely welcomed as a permanent guest," declared Walter, chivalrously. "But how about the count?"

"A count of no account," reported Marcella with a wry face. "Luckily I found it out in time. And your servants—how different to those at that half-civilized settlement. The man who carried in my traps was quite dignified."

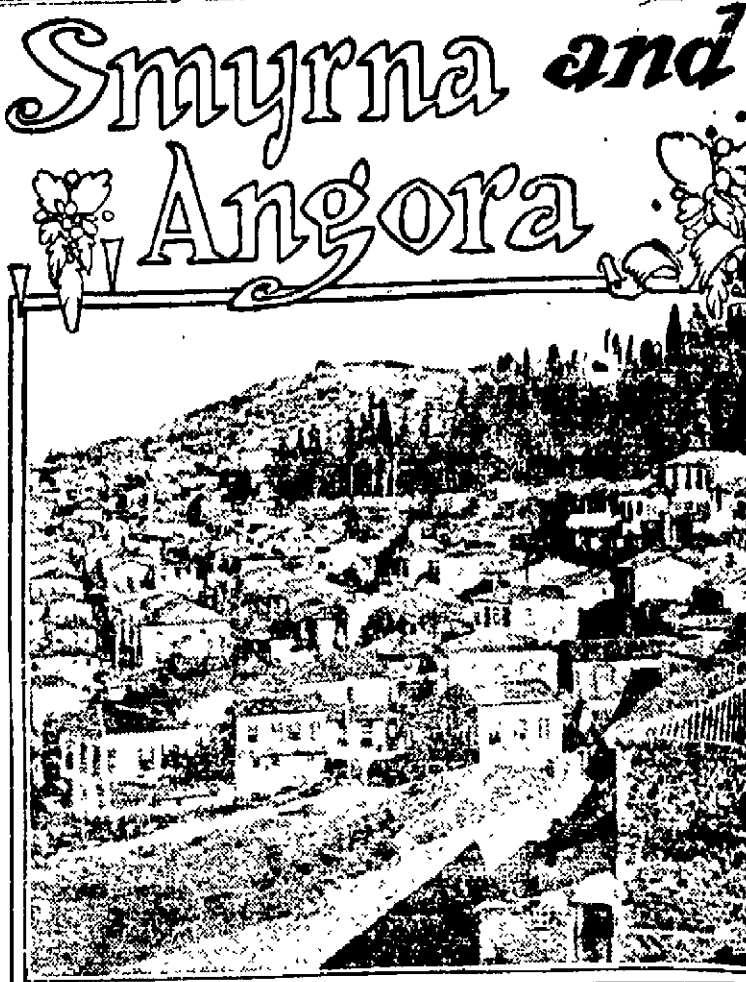

"You do not recognize him?" inquired Blanche with a quizzical smile. "Why, no," replied her sister with a puzzled air.

"He is Ayrith."

"You mean the man whom you rescued from that horrible penance at the old post?"

"The same. Through him, my dear Marcella," declared the young consul, "all our good fortune seems to have started with a bound. A little seed of kindness—"

"And lo! the beautiful fall-blown flower!" cried the happy Blanche, her outspread arms expressing the luxury, the joy, the comfort, the rare love with which heaven had blessed her.

Turkish Quarter of Smyrna.

(Prepared by the National Geographic Society, Washington, D. C.)

Smyrna, captured by the Turks and partly burned, is one of the patriarchs among the world's famous cities. Some American cities are proud of their age, feeling that a few centuries entitles them to distinction. In contrast to the newest oil town of Texas or Oklahoma where constables are probably still to be found along Main street, Boston's 230-odd years indeed justify a feeling of maturity, while the four and a quarter centuries that look down on Santo Domingo entitle that first community to its pride of seniority.

But both of them are in the heyday of youth when compared with London, which probably has existed for close to nineteen hundred years, or Rome with 26 centuries behind it. It is when the Near East is reached, however, that one finds cities that are truly old. Many, like Babylon and Thebes, Nineveh and Memphis, have crumbled away ages ago, but here and there one comes upon a living community whose beginnings are lost in the haze beyond the point where history began.

Such a gray-beard among cities is Smyrna, which is believed to have been already long in existence at the time of the destruction of Troy, eleven centuries before Christ. In fact Smyrna is set up by some persons as a rival for Damascus as the oldest city in the world.

The original builders at Smyrna chose their site more happily perhaps than they knew. The forces of nature have been kind to the locality. Miletus and Ephesus were formidable rivals for many centuries, but their rivers finally choked their harbors with silt and the cities died. Smyrna had no stream of any consequence, and its excellent harbor—the best in Asia Minor—has continued to bear its heavy burden of commerce through the ages.

K. H. S. ELEVEN WORKS HARD FOR NEXT GAME

Although the local High School football team has won the cellar position in the Hudson Valley League it does not mean that they have given up fighting in any way. Instead they are putting forth their best efforts this week to get in shape for the Binghamton game which faces them this week Saturday and the Stuyvesant High School game which comes off a week from Saturday at the Fair Grounds. So far no team has been secured for a game Thanksgiving. The backfield of the local team is in a decidedly crippled condition due to the fact that Stanley Colvin, one of the mainstays, has left school and Dave Paulk is in the hospital with an attack of appendicitis. Vogt's shoulder is also in bad shape and it is a question whether or not he will be able to play a full game on Saturday.

ST. STEPHEN'S TIES CONN. AGGIES

The St. Stephen's College eleven staged, as acknowledged by the Boston and Hartford papers, one of the most thrilling games of inter-collegiate football of the season when it tied the Connecticut "Aggies" at Storrs, Saturday, 12-12. The game up until the last five seconds of play was 12-6. Then Quarterback Slimmons called a forward pass play, with Deloria, the St. Stephen's fullback, back, White, the left halfback, streaked down the field for fifty yards and Deloria, dodging the two Connecticut ends and tackle, shot the pass low over the line, swiftly and for fifty yards into White's arms who ran twenty-five yards for the touchdown. As the ball left Deloria's hands the time expired, but in such an event the play may be completed. Deloria missed his try for goal from touchdown.

In was through Deloria's wonderful passing of the ball that the game was tied for the Annandaleans. In the third quarter, with the score 6-0 and the Aggies in the lead, Deloria threw a forty yard pass to Kirby, the right halfback, who crossed the line for the first St. Stephen's goal. Deloria, who is a full-blooded Sioux Indian, hails from South Dakota.

St. Stephen's is to play the New York State Teachers' College at Annandale next Saturday. However, there will not be much opposition for the local collegiates in that game but, instead, all efforts are being turned toward the Thanksgiving Day game with Providence College at Providence, R. I. Next Saturday's game will start at 2:30 p. m.

Richard Gruven of this city plays center on the St. Stephen's eleven.
